

The construction of machinery for the textile industry is an area which demonstrates the flexibility of the bending press.

Steel has replaced cast iron whilst maintaining strength and workability and increasing the range of forms, thicknesses, and adaptability.

{phocagallery view=category|categoryid=11|imageshadow=shadow1|displaybuttons=1}